

Parents and Caregivers,

Teachers College Reading and Writing Project at Columbia University created free offerings for families. Stratford's Office of Teaching and Learning recognizes that you are working tirelessly to support your child's reading and writing.

Below are the resources that were developed to share with parents:

Family Videos

The videos show you games to play at home while others help you support phonics, avid reading, writing, study skills, research, vocabulary, or abstract thinking. Teachers College will add to this collection regularly. You can access these collections via YouTube Channel or Padlets:

Pr-K-2nd Grade, Grades 3-5, Grades 6-9.

Book Collections

Want help finding some books your child will love to read? Teachers College curated book collections of all-time and brand-new favorites, designed to hook readers young and old. They also have a section of Authors Reading Aloud Their Books. Find these collections here.

Office Hours for Parents and Caregivers

These office hours are free and open to all, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Registration information is found here.
