Meet Your Certified Athletic Trainer

Dana Jusino

Head Athletic Trainer

Dana Jusino, MEd, ATC is the Head Athletic Trainer at Stratford High School. She graduated in 2006 from Sacred Heart University in Connecticut with a Bachelor's degree in Athletic Training. After graduating from SHU, Dana attended Providence College, Providence, RI. While at Providence, Dana majored in Education in School Counseling while working as a graduate assistant athletic trainer.

She received her National Athletic Training Board of Certification in 2006. After receiving her certification, Dana became a part of the Providence College Sports Medicine team in addition to working on her master's degree. As a graduate assistant AT Dana was the provider of healthcare for various Division I elite athletes including being the main athletic trainer for the softball team as well as working closely with the Women's Ice hockey team and the Men's Lacrosse team. Dana is currently in her fourth year with Select Physical Therapy and in her third year serving as the head athletic trainer for Stratford High School.

What is an Athletic Trainer?

"Certified ATC's are healthcare professionals who collaborate with physicians to optimize activity and participation of patients and clients. Athletic training encompasses the prevention, diagnosis and intervention of emergency, acute and chronic medical conditions involving impairment, functional limitations and disabilities. Athletic training is recognized by the American Medical Association as a healthcare profession." - Board of Certification

Are they qualified?

All certified and/or licensed athletic trainers must have a Bachelor's or Master's Degree from an accredited college or university and pass the Board of Certification National Exam in order to practice athletic training.
